Bride and Maid-of-Honor at One of the Week's Prettiest Wedding Affairs—the Webber-James Nuptials

THE WEEK has been filled with the flutterings and palpitations of the sweet girl graduates combined with the studied indifference of the young men, and younger men, who always receive their diplomas as if they had been in the habit of doing just that identical thing every morning before breakfast for the last ten years of their lives.

Benign old Sol has insisted on smiling so brightly and openly during the late weeks that only the very young people will cast defiance at flushed faces and wilted collars, and dance. Their dignified seniors prefer a more languid life at this time of the year, going out in the cooler hours of the evening to a quiet dinner perhaps, or once in awhile spending a restful afternoon on the breezy lawn of the Country Club sipping iced tea or playing a few rubbers of bridge in the airy club room. It is always so—senior society becomes marked by a languor and calm which is characteristic of the lazy mid-summer days—but this does not apply to the younger set. Freed from the studies and serious tasks of the year, they are filled with the stimulant of freedom and the joy of living. The conspicuous elements here are picnics, sea-baths, yachting trips, tennis sets and burned noses.

By the first of July, most of the young people who have been away to college and school in the east, will have returned, and vacation, with all the informal good-times and merry-making which are its legal right, will have set in in good earnest.

What Pantalotte Wedding.

The greatest interest is still taken in the aftermath discussion of the wedding of Miss Lurline Matson and Mr. Roth, for the bridesmaids at their wedding, as one guest said, "put over" costumes the like of which have not been seen in many a decade. In this era of eccentricities it is difficult to catch the faded interest of those accustomed to all sorts of oddities, but the appearance of lace pantalottes certainly accomplished the result. For some time we had been hearing that the styles of our grandmothers were to be repeated around the ankles, but it took a demonstration at a wedding to give impetus to the notion that we could do it today. Nothing could have been more quaint and attractive than the styles in which the gowns of these girls were made, and so cunningly did the little billowy bits of lace around the ankles look that it is generally agreed that there will be a great many dancing frocks this season that will be made with pantalottes.

The Roths have taken a home on Russian Hill, which they will occupy after their return from their honeymoon, and their young friends are looking forward to a joyous good time under their hospitable roof. The Gallios and the Sam Hopkins have taken adjoining houses on the very tip-top of the hill. Mrs. Gallio, since her return from foreign honeymooning, has been giving a series of luncheons in the home which they have leased down on the peninsula, and when she comes to town in October will undoubtedly add to the season's gaieties by taking up her hostess duties here in town. —San Francisco News-Better.

Mrs. Dougherty's Bridge.

Mrs. James D. Dougherty was hostess at a delightful bridge party on Wednesday afternoon at the Country Club. It was quite the largest affair for some time past, there being twelve tables, but entertaining on a large scale is characteristic of this charming hostess. The club room was beautifully decorated with palms, ferns, and jardines filled with lovely begonias. After an afternoon of spirited bidding a prize was awarded at every table, the twelve fortunate receiving dainty candle shades of different colors.

Later in the afternoon the card enthusiasts were joined by a number of other ladies who came in for tea, which was served at tables prettily decorated with chrysanthemums. Mrs. Arthur Wall assisted Mrs. Dougherty in receiving and entertaining her guests.

Among those present were Mrs. J. M. Dowell, Mrs. Frank Armstrong, Mrs. Hagen, Mrs. Helen Noonan, Mrs. Cunah, Miss Margaret Walker, Mrs. Arthur Berg, Mrs. E. W. Sutton, Mrs. William Lyner, Miss L. McStocker, Mrs. Arnett P. Matthews, Mrs. George Ross, Miss Madeline Ross, Mrs. Harry S. Gray, Miss Ina Gray, the Misses Soper, Mrs. Foster, Mrs. T. J. King, Mrs. Merle Johnson, Mrs. Arthur Wall, Mrs. Adams, Mrs. George A. McElwain, Mrs. A. E. Murphy, Mrs. E. M. Watson, Mrs. M. E. Grossman, Mrs. Philip Peck, Mrs. Davidson, Mrs. Lackland, Mrs. E. G. Dunsen, Mrs. Bush, Mrs. Lucas, Mrs. Ellis, Mrs. A. Hocking, Mrs. Nelson Lansing, Mrs. Z. K. Myers, Mrs. Sam Peck, Mrs. A. A. Young, Mrs. C. Waterman, Mrs. J. M. Riggs, Miss Robertson, Miss Sibyl Robertson, Mrs. Gustave Schaefer, Mrs. Beele Abbott Howland and others.

Engagement and Shower.

A very pleasant surprise party and shower were tendered Miss Elizabeth Foster at the residence of Mrs. W. R. Foster in Palolo valley yesterday afternoon. There were 26 ladies present, and after the presentation of a large number of linen articles and aluminum kitchen utensils to the bride-elect there came another surprise for those present in the announcement of the engagement of Miss Cora Root to Mr. A. McPherson, a recent arrival from the coast. The marriage is set for a date in the near future.

During the afternoon there were readings by Mrs. Tupples and Mrs. W. A. Ramsey, a recital by Mrs. Frank James, and several charming selections of piano, violin and cello by the Misses Hopper and Root.

Refreshments of ice cream, cake, coffee and other delicacies were served.

D. A. R. Meeting.

The annual meeting of the Aloha Chapter, National Society, Daughters of the American Revolution, held Monday afternoon at the residence of Mrs. Herman Hugo, Metcalf street, Manoa Valley, took more the form of a farewell to the retiring regent, Mrs. Perley L. Horne, than of a regular business affair, with an incidental election of officers.

The beautiful residence of Mrs. Hugo was thrown open and the spacious rooms and broad lawns were most effectively decorated with American flags, palms and lilies. After the singing of "America" and the roll call, the retiring regent read her report of the past year's work and at the same time thanked the officers and members for their loyal support in the past and bade farewell to the chapter that she has served so well for the last four years. Mrs. Horne's remarks were followed by the reports of the secretary, Miss Agnes Judd, who told of the various activities of the chapter; of the treasurer, Miss Charlotte V. Hall, who gave a most satisfactory account of the funds; and of the registrar, who made a statement of the membership. The report of the nominating committee, Mrs. W. L. Moore, chairman, was accepted and put to the ballot, resulting as follows: Regent, Mrs. William Alanson Bryan; vice-regent, Mrs. J. M. Atherton; secretary, Mrs. Agnes Judd; treasurer, Miss Charlotte V. Hall; registrar, Mrs. A. Gartley; historian, Miss Mary Lawrence; chaplain, Mrs. A. H. Judd.

Mrs. Bryan, the new regent, was welcomed to the chair by the retiring regent, and made a short address of acceptance, after which a committee of three, the Misses Marsh, Armstrong, and Lawrence, were appointed to arrange the program for the coming season. The meeting closed with a delightful musical program, consisting of a violin solo by Mr. Leonard Pettit, accompanied by Mrs. Arthur B. Ingalls; vocal solos by Miss Jones and Miss Mills assisted by Miss Peabody, and concluding with a piano solo by Miss Gertrude Turner.

A social hour was spent over delicious refreshments; regrets and alohas were expressed for Mrs. Horne, who was almost smothered with flowers and seed leis, while felicitations and congratulations were extended to Mrs. Bryan, the popular new regent.

Mrs. Funston at the Presidio.

Letters from army officers' wives who have joined their husbands at the Mexican border tell of the difficult situation many of them have found themselves in there. Accommodations are almost as scarce as they were in the early days of the occupancy of the Philippines, when the hotels in Manila were crowded and the rates exorbitant. In El Paso every hotel, boarding house and apartment house is filled to the limit and nearly every officer at Fort Bliss, nearby, has taken in some family who has found it self without a roof. But, as usual with army wives, they are making the best of the situation and enjoying themselves in spite of discomforts.

One bride of a few months from Fort Winfield Scott, who recently joined her lieutenant husband at the front, writes that when she arrived at El Paso there was not a room to be had but she finally persuaded a hotel-keeper to put her in a small storeroom in the attic for which she paid almost as much as her husband's pay per month.

Mrs. Frederick Funston, who is very well known in Honolulu, has moved with her children into one of the Presidio houses and will remain there while General Funston is on duty in the south.

Webber-James Wedding.

One of the largest and loveliest affairs of the week was the wedding which took place at 8:15 o'clock last Monday evening at St. Andrew's Cathedral when Miss Carrie Ellen James became the bride of Mr. Owen Thomas Webber. The beautiful Episcopal ceremony was performed by Canon Ault in the presence of about 150 relatives and friends.

The church was simply but effectively decorated. Tall vases filled with stately white Easter lilies adorned the altar, while ferns and palms enhanced the architectural beauty of the chancel.

Upon the opening chords of the processional, the vested choir entered, led by Werner Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jared G. Smith, as cross-bearer. After the anthem, Mr. Reginald Carter rendered the wedding march from "Lohengrin" for the entrance of the bridal party.

The ushers were Mr. Frank James, Mr. Patrick, Mr. W. Easeman and Mr. Percy Nottage. Following them were the two bridesmaids, Miss Sophie and Miss Katherine Walker. Next came the maid of honor, Miss Ethel James, who is a sister of the bride. She was gowned in a lovely creation of peacock taffeta. The skirt was made in the latest French puffed style with points extending up over the bodice, which was composed of shadow lace. It was trimmed with tiny pink roses over the shoulders, around the waist and around the sleeves, while a large green butterfly bow of moline at the back completed the costume. She carried a lovely shower bouquet of pink sweet peas of two shades.

Miss Kathleen Walker wore a gown of blue taffeta, made according to the same style and trimmed with shadow lace, tiny pink and blue roses and a large blue moline bow. She carried a lovely bouquet of two shades of pale pink sweet peas which were tied with long streamers of moline. Her sister, Miss Sophie Walker, was gowned in apricot yellow taffeta trimmed in shadow lace and pearls, with a yellow butterfly bow at the back. She carried a large bouquet of sweet peas in their soft lavender shades. All three wore white shadow lace hats, made according to the piquant three-cornered Dutch style. The only trimmings were white airgettes held in place with rhinestone buckles.

Next came the bride on the arm of her father, Dr. William F. James. She looked very beautiful in her lovely white crepe de chine gown draped on the bodice and skirt with point lace.

Her veil was of finest tulle and fell in graceful folds to the end of her long court train. She carried a shower bouquet of lilies of the valley.

The two little Waldron girls in fluffy white frocks, one wearing pink ribbons and sash and the other blue, preceded the bride. They carried on their arms little baskets of rose petals which they scattered down the aisle.

Dr. Leonard Newton Case acted as best man for Mr. Webber, and Dr. James gave his daughter away.

Mr. Carter played the Mendelssohn march as the bridal party passed down the aisle to the door.

Invitations had been sent out for a large reception, which was to take place after the ceremony, but owing to the recent quarantine it was necessary to cancel them.

Mr. and Mrs. Webber left on the Makura, sailing Tuesday evening for British Columbia. From there they will journey straight across to England, and the continent, where they will enjoy an extended honeymoon.

A large number of their friends were at the boat to wish them "bon voyage," and congratulations. Well wishes and rice were heaped upon the young couple.

Among those invited to the wedding were: Dr. and Mrs. F. E. Trotter, Dr. and Mrs. W. C. Hobdy, Dr. and Mrs. E. R. Marshall, Dr. and Mrs. A. N. Sinclair, Dr. and Mrs. C. M. Fauntleroy, Dr. and Mrs. J. Col. Rafferty's Dinner.
Colonel William C. Rafferty was host at a delightful dinner on Monday evening at the University club. The table was artistically decorated with red carnations and fully maidenhair fern. After dinner Col. Rafferty took the entire party to the lecture on "Volcanoes." Among those present were Mrs. Ayres, Miss Florence Butler, Mrs. Alexander G. Hawes, Major Blakely, Mr. Wrenn and others.

Col. and Mrs. Ellis' Dinner.
Col. and Mrs. W. E. Ellis entertained at a delightful dinner at Fort Ruger on Thursday evening. The table was beautifully decorated with deep red snapdragons and ferns. The place cards were quaint little Japanese figures. Covers were placed for General and Mrs. William H. Carter, Admiral and Mrs. C. H. T. Moore, Col. and Mrs. J. B. McDonald, Capt. and Mrs. Edward Carpenter, and the host and hostess.

Miss Halestead's Chowder.
Miss Gladys Halestead was hostess at a very jolly chowder party at the Outrigger club Wednesday evening. Covers were laid for about 30 of the young friends of the hostess. After supper marshmallows were toasted on the beach and a very informal and pleasant evening enjoyed.

Mr. and Mrs. Bush's Dinner.
Mr. and Mrs. G. F. Bush entertained a number of young people at a lovely dinner Thursday evening in honor of Mr. and Mrs. James Schaefer. The table was beautifully decorated in blue and gold, the Punahou colors, large blue asters and bright yellow sunflowers being used. It was called an American-Hawaiian dinner and this idea was very appropriately carried out. At each end of the table stood a miniature Hawaiian village, and there was a realistic beach with a sure-enough canoe on it, too. The

After dinner dancing was enjoyed and the evening slipped by quickly and happily. Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. James Schaefer, Mr. and Mrs. Chester H. S., Mrs. Norma Adams, the Misses Ruth McChesney, Laura Atherton, Psyche Berry, Fannie Hoops, the Messrs. Russell O'Hara, Edmund Young, Gavien Bush, Shirley Bush, Albert Bush, Leroy Bush and Mr. and Mrs. Bush.

Mr. and Mrs. Schmutzler's Dinner.
Mr. and Mrs. C. P. Schmutzler entertained at dinner on Thursday evening for Miss Maud Martin, Lieut. Robert G. Calder, Miss Marjorie Peterson and Mr. Daniel Rieker. The table was very artistically decorated with African daisies and feathery maidenhair ferns. Miss Martin, whose engagement to Lieut. Calder was recently announced, is leaving for the coast on the Manoa next Tuesday, so the affair was in the form of a farewell to her.
